Chamber Directors Consider Budget

The Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors met Tuesday night to consider their budget and go on record opposing any creation of US 441 alternatives.

The directors considered the audit report for the last two years and considered the coming year's finances, but they took no final action.

They sided with the 441 Highway Association in opposing a plan to create an alternate US 441 which would use the old US 27 from Lakeburg to the south of Sebring and then tend to direct traffic away from Belle Glade.

It was also announced that there would be a meeting of the legislative action committee Dec. 4 at 5 p. m. at the chamber office to hear James Moody.

U. S. Chamber of Commerce representative from Atlanta, Ga. All committee members are being urged to attend this important re-activation meeting.

Also, the next fiesta committee meeting will be next Monday at the chamber office at 8 p. m.

The directors authorized the ordering of new membership hangers, decals and desk stickers for office windows and signs. Attending the meeting Tuesday were Russell Tucker, R. A. Poston, Dr. W. T. Forsee, Dr. R. T. Townsend, Robert Mathews, Ed Shoepfer, Earl Lindroose, Dr. Victor Mulberg and Urban Felsing.

James was introduced at the meeting by County Agricultural Agent M. U. Mounts, who also presented his assistant agents, H. S. Soper, John Cussey, Kent Price and Raleigh Griffin.

Following is the text of Jones' remarks before the club: In these fabulous times when the Spunkies of the top society of the world mingle with the Martinis of the financial universe, we have welcomed a Jetnik of the industrial world. I hope to point out to you how

By George A. McKay

Thanksgiving — let's give thanks: One day each year is set aside as Thanksgiving at which time people give thanks with feasting and prayer for the blessings they may have received during the year.

In reference to giving thanks as a people of this great nation should be thankful for being able to enjoy freedom of press, speech, religion and the right to assemble.

With the chaos and unrest abiding in the world today, humbly give thanks to God for this land of ours. I can find no better medium through which to express my thoughts than the poetry of James Metcalf who sums up my thoughts in the following verse:

We thank you, God, for everything that we possess today . . . And most of all we thank you for our democratic way . . . The right to live in liberty and freedom from all fear . . . In comfortable security and brotherhood sincere . . . The right to vote the way we want and worship as we please . . . According to our principles and human sympathies . . . We thank you for your blessings and the turkey we eat . . . And ask that you will hear our prayer as humbly we entreat . . . And thank you, God, for all your gifts however old or new . . . We love you and we worship You and give our thanks to You.

Tom turkey was the man of the hour Thursday afternoon sharing the local spotlight with the Bobcats of Lake Shore who may or may not have moved one step closer to tying down second place in the Class B conference ratings. Hope your Thanksgiving was a great day.

Reverend Fayson Ends Sixth Year At Mt. Zion AME

Reverend M. Fayson, pastor of Mount Zion AME Church, closes his sixth year of service when he leaves Belle Glade Dec. 11-15 for the South Florida conference at Fort Pierce.

Reverend Fayson came to Mount Zion from Vero Beach and his record over the past six years has been one of constant progress. The membership is presently housed in a new modern church which will serve for years to come as mute testimony of his ability. The membership, which was 124 upon his arrival, has increased to 250 active members.

He has been able to raise the church income from $3,500 to $7,500 annually which puts the church on a sound financial basis. With the assistance of M. M. Hamilton, assistant pastor and Reverend Jacob Williams, Reverend Fayson administers a program of spiritual aid and comfort to the inmates of the Belle Glade Prison Farm. Mrs. M. W. Fayson, wife of the pastor, organized and perfected a choir of 28 members.

The membership of the church is carried on through 14 departments which are headed by vice chairman Albert Ghent, Vereen, No. 2 stewards board; H. J. Poole, trustee's department and assistant financial secretary; Lloyd Gibbs, Sunday School superintendent; Mrs. H. J. Poole, chairlady of stewards board one; Mrs. Gus Freeman, stewards board two; and Rosetta Coffey, stewards board three; Mrs. Ollie Lewis, president of the board one; Betty Humphrey, usher board two.

Others are Danny Bythewood, president choir one; Harold Poole, president choir two; Thaddey Harrell, chairlady of Willing Workers; and Mrs. M. W. Fayson, president of choir festival.

Reverend Fayson is presently preparing to lay the foundation for a $15,000 parsonage.

Brooks Assumes Migrant Ministry

Reverend William M. Brooks, recently appointed to the Florida Ministry to Migrants, under the direction of Reverend Paul Cassen, is now in charge of religious activities at Okeechobee Center here as well as Canal Point and Pahokee centers.

The migrant ministry is an interdenominational program in 10 states sponsored jointly by the Migrant Committee and the National Council of churches.

Reverend Brooks, a graduate of Morris Brown College, Gammon Seminary and Atlanta University, was formerly senior boys' worker at Carrie Steele Pitts Home, a community chest agency, Atlanta, Ga., and earlier this year served as assistant secretary and associate coordinator of a division of the community chest drive there.

From his present base of operations, Okeechobee Center, Reverend Brooks plans to help promote religious, educational, recreational and welfare programs with and for migrants.

He will also seek to integrate and correlate his work with existing community resources and develop an awareness of these potentials which can help build religious aims within the area.

His wife, Isabelle, a former kindergarten teacher, child worker and women's worker in the Georgia-Carolina Presbytery, accompanies him in his work.

Homemaker Exam Set At Lake Shore

"Homemaker of Tomorrow Day" will be observed at Lake Shore High School here and throughout the United States Tuesday, Dec. 3, according to an announcement by the school.

Torrence Given Suspended Term

Gus Torrence, 50-year-old Belle Glade Negro bar operator, received a suspended five-year sentence and was fined $1,000 and costs before Criminal Court Judge Hugh MacMillan Nov. 22.

The judge acted on a plea of guilty from several Glades residents who termed Torrence "a respected citizen."

The sentence was based on a July conviction on two of three charges of violating state gambling laws. Torrence has been the subject of recent city commission action to refuse renewal of his liquor license.

The city was then asked to transfer the license to R. W. Griffin. Officials here held up action pending the action by the criminal court and state beverage department which had scheduled a hearing on the renewal of Torrence's license.

FBI Apprehends Negro Wanted For Attacking White Woman Last Year

A 19-year-old Negro is being held at West Palm Beach in connection with the assault with intent to commit rape on a White woman here a year ago.

The man, James W. Pate, also known as James Butler, his stepfather's name, and James Farrington, was arrested Nov. 21 at Fort Lauderdale by FBI agents since Pate was the subject of an unlawful flight warrant.

Pate was returned to Belle Glade police by Constable W. L. Lee and was given a preliminary hearing before Peace Justice J. R. Cherry before being committed to West Palm Beach.

Pate told Police Chief Goodlett and later Assistant County Solicitor Frederick H. Hope that he committed the assault with intent to rape the Polar Bear, an ice cream stand at 212 SW 4th St.

His victim in the attack on Oct. 15, 1956, Mrs. Rene Rickey, was able to fight off her attacker, but she was admitted to Belle Glade Memorial Hospital at the time for treatment of injuries received. She allegedly reported to police then that Pate made a remark about "not being after money."

ARGO-INDUSTRY

near we are to launching a satellite, free and free-wheeling that will travel the outer space of the agricultural world. This speech will concern itself primarily with "Argo-Industry," a name given by Clarence Bittling to the processing and preparation of agricultural products for the user.

Palm Beach County ships out every year in carlots, vegetables, meat, cloth fibers, grain, sugar, milk and poultry — the simple needs of man's every day life — and supplements this with citrus and other delicacies of the tropical fruit family, blossoms for his table, shrubs and plants for his flower garden and millions of square feet of grass sod for his lawn.

Palm Beach County ranks at the top of the nation's vegetable producing areas; this county is unsurpassed in the production of sweet corn, celery and beans; nowhere in the world does man bring from the soil so much sweetness per acre per year as economically as does our cane sugar industry.

Florida is 24th in number of cattle and 13th in beef cattle, and our beef cattle industry is growing by leaps and bounds in this county. We have the largest cattle auction market in the State in numbers sold as well as dollars received.

Practically every phase of Palm Beach County's 75 to 80 million dollar annual agricultural production offers opportunities for refinements, additions, expansions and substantial contribution to industrialization.

President Eisenhower has an exhaustive study submitted by his Committee on Industrialization of Agricultural products and many recommendations in this study apply specifically and opportunistically to our county.

The quick-freezing of beans, one of our principal vegetable crops is begging a practical demonstration where they are grown in order to save this volatile industry, so do crops such as kale, mustard, collards and other leafy vegetables which grow prodigiously and of high quality, in this county. Mechanization of harvest will bring this nearer to realization.

Packaging of our vegetables in family sized units for convenience, attractiveness to customers, and preservation of natural vitamins for table use, would aid the distribution problem.

Florida slaughtered 204,700 beef animals in 1951; in 1952 that figure was 267,000. Palm Beach County is contributing 125,000 of this figure in 1957, practically all grass fattened.

Palm Beach County cattle-men are making money on grass fattened beef cattle; the grades may be generally increased, and the profits also boosted through use of native feeds.

Processing the beef for the table and promoting its distribution through aggressive sales efforts, in southeast Florida particularly, offers avenues of increased industrialization of agricultural products.

There are four federally inspected slaughter houses in the state, with one more being planned immediately.

One Miami packer buys his calf carcasses in Texas and Louisiana, ships them to Miami for processing into institutional packages and finds his greatest market in Chicago. Southwest Florida, including this county, does produce veal to furnish this man.

This county produces US grades of shell corn which is sold on the Tampa market at the same FOB price as Chicago corn. Forages from grasses, millets and sorghums grow luxuriantly and contain more effective food value per acre than does the best alfalfa fields of the west and midwest.

Floyd C. Markham, a Belle Glade producer of honey is reluctant to enter his poultry in the State Fair at Tampa in recent years, because he had no successful competition in prize winning.

Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties import over 700,000 cases of fresh eggs, with Palm Beach county accounting for 62,425 of these. This deficiency may be remedied through demonstrated methods of utilizing local feeds carrying very high percentages of carotene, chlorophyll and protein. Feeds equaling those presently used costing $125 to $150 per ton are available in this county.

Importation of broilers and fryers may be greatly lessened through the same utilization of locally produced feeds.

The rabbit industry of Palm Beach County faces the same feeding problems as does the poultry and egg industry and may find relief at the same feed processing plant.

The Miami-Palm Beach area consumes approximately 125,000 gallons of fresh milk daily, and the present annual increase in this consumption amounts to approximately 10 per cent. This increase has caused huge refrigerated milk trucks from Alabama and Georgia to invade this area during this past summer, which is our slack season.

Florida's average production per milk cow for '53 was 3,280 pounds, up from 3,140 pounds in '51, as against a national average of 3,000 pounds and a California average of 3,600 pounds. Florida has no peers in the quality of its milk.

Dairy nutritionists tell us that a dairy cow will produce 85 per cent of her natural capacity when fed proper roughage, and no grain.

The county agricultural agent tells us that part of Florida east and south of Alachua County imports nearly 300,000 tons of dairy feed annually.

Florida's Annual Agricultural Statistical Summary 1952-57 Season lists more than 25 times as many dairy cows as there are in this territory located in eastern states accessible by barge to our fields. If we accept ten times local needs as a fair figure for these coastal states, we have 3,000,000 tons of imported feeds to which we may aspire for market, if our own water freight rate is equal to or less than rail rates from the Midwest.

So, we have a local market of 3,000,000 tons annually of dairy feeds alone. We have a potential 3,000,000 ton market within barging distance of our fields and processing plants.

Do we have the wherewithal to produce a feed of equal quality to that now imported, at a competitive price?

The verdict of Dr. Victor Green, Dr. Chapman, Mr. Allen, Mr. Kidder, Dr. Tommy Forsee, and others of the Everglades Experiment Station say quality of TDN is excellent, and tonnages are fabulous.

Dr. Roy Bair, formerly with the Station and now a private consultant to these findings, as do private laboratory quality of TDN is excellent, and tonnages are fabulous.

Here is a report of field tests: St. Augustine, Para and Caribbean grasses are excellent in tonnage and high in protein.

Here is a report of hybrid sorghums: 5 to 8 tons per acre, dry weight, with proteins up to 13 and 15 per cent when cut at maximum productive stage.

Now, there is only one little hitch — our forages in their most luscious and highest TDN content are well known to contain from 80 to 92 per cent moisture, and engineers tell us that its cost to bring that moisture down 10 per cent is actually.

One thing that has kept red from the books of Florida's juice industry at times, I'm told, is the pulp and molasses, and these are by-products. They squeeze the pulp and refine the juice from the pulp into molasses. Citrus pulp is now considered a waste in south Florida.

That same machinery, adapted, is now used to squeeze the water from the forages down to 70 per cent, which pulp is then dehydrated on a rotary with Midwestern alfalfa dried in the making of a most palatable forage of a higher value than the alfalfa.

Every-day methods in the industry remove the tip of the alfalfa grasses from the artificial dryer to produce a concentrate now so necessary in the feeding of layers, broilers and rabbits.

Scientists and farmers will go along with a higher figure, but we will assume 125 tons of dry feed per acre per year, and come up with some 24,000 acres to supply our own needs, and a quarter of million acres more to supply our coastal neighbors to the north.

To furnish our own needs will produce a $12,000,000 annual industry with 3 million for payroll and the same for investment capital. Ten times that for neighbors, is easy to figure.

Fibers now growing in this county are as strategic in the full sense of the word as tin, rubber, silver and other rare minerals.

There is doubtless prospect of our ability to continue to furnish Europe with around a million pounds of ramie fiber annually, and to supply increasing domestic needs.

There is doubtless prospect of our ability to continue to furnish Europe with around a million pounds of ramie fiber annually, and to supply increasing domestic needs.

These problems have been solved to the extent that volume production is practical and the civilian textile industry is joining the governmental agencies and military in progressing from acceptance to demand.

The fiber industry in this County and southeast Florida has a potential in agri-industry that will place it in the class with Florida's Citrus industry in dollar volume within the normal life-span of most of us here today.

Remember, that one million pounds of fiber (ramie or kenaf) means 100 thousand in annual payroll on one thousand acres. There are those who foresee a 100 thousand-acre crop in this county.

Your CPA will tell you that agriculture ranks next to oil in the generosity of Mr. Whiskers' tax boys to convert normal income to capital gain in this field.

Nowhere in the world is there a better opportunity for the development of new industry, agri-industry, than right here in your back yard.

The topsoil and the fabulous and the stakes are almost incalculable. The money is there to be made, the only thing that remains to be decided is: Who will make it?

Exemplar Degrees Conferred On Two

The Exemplar degree was conferred on two members of the Beta Xi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority at the regular meeting of the Exemplar Chapter on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Jimmy Williams, with Mrs. Frank C. Anderson, cohostess.

Mrs. Harold Zumpf presided at the candlelight ceremony with Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Howard Payne assisting. Mrs. Grant Avenell and Mrs. Vernon Dexter received the degrees.

The group agreed to exchange meeting dates to the first and third Thursday in December and announcement was made of the annual secret sister party to be held on Dec. 5.

A program on "Writing" was presented by Mrs. Louis Kirchman.

Others attending were Mrs. Milton Carpenter, Mrs. William A. Wooten, Jr., Mrs. Rosa Nash, Mrs. O. G. McWhorter, Mrs. E. F. McAllister, and Mrs. Thomas Chappell.

Special Clinics Set

Veneral disease, commonly called "bad blood," won't cure itself, Belle Glade Health Unit officials point out. Treatment clinics are being held regularly at the health department clinic at 1024 NW Ave. D.

These officials advise going to a doctor or attending one of the above mentioned clinics held at 8 p. m. Wednesday nights.

Figures just released by the U. S. Forest Service set peak wood production by 12 southern states at 20,344,000 cords in 1955, a new record.
